Dear Malcolm,

Thank you for your letter of 25 April, which we have already acknowledged, enclosing another survey which Global Britain has commissioned from Minotaur Media Tracking. I am aware that you have also sent a copy to the Director-General and to BBC News.

Each of your complaints is looked at closely by BBC News and I know that Mark Damazer has met you on more than one occasion. You will recall that we had a useful meeting last year in the Lords, where I attempted to reassure you about the depth of our commitment to impartiality.

I do not believe that we are failing in the way you suggest, but I am sure BBC News executives will answer your criticisms in due course and alert me to any editorial concerns.

Yours ever,

Christopher
